ADVISORY SERVICES / BUSINESS

On January 1, 2019, Moneywatch Advisors updated its registration to reflect its merger with MAI of Lexington, Kentucky. At that time the official business became MAI dba Moneywatch Advisors. We have filed a Succession of Amendment with our current ADV which confirms there has been no practical change in control or management.

Moneywatch Advisors began providing investment advisory and financial planning services through its predecessor Moneywatch Corporation in 1980. Ramsey P. Bova owns 100% of the company stock. Moneywatch Advisors provides continuous advice on investments consistent with a client's individual needs and financial objectives. Its clientele consists of approximately 377 individuals, retirement plans, trusts, estates, and charitable organizations, with primary emphasis on individuals, in 32 states. Moneywatch Advisors manages a total of 1,418 accounts, overseeing investment capital that exceeds $291 million.

Advice is provided on common stocks, investment trusts, exchange-traded funds, warrants, certificates of deposit, municipal and corporate bonds, mutual funds, variable annuities, U.S. government securities and stock options. Advice is also available on commercial and residential real estate, banking and credit, retirement and education funding, and virtually all aspects of financial planning.

Moneywatch Advisor's approach to managing a client's investment assets is to determine the client's needs in terms of income (cash flow), preservation of capital and capital appreciation. We recommend an appropriate investment strategy which dictates how the investment assets are to be divided between income and growth investments.

Income investments are defined as cash, money market funds, certificates of deposit, bonds, bond mutual funds & closed-end funds, unit investment trusts, fixed annuities and life insurance cash value, among others. These assets generally represent a loan by the investor to some entity where the investor has the security of being first in line to get money back in the event of the failure of the issuer. Income investments normally pay some form of regular cash flow commonly referred to as interest. The primary reason for owning income investments is preservation of capital, and, secondarily, the cash flow.

We define growth investments as any asset which is purchased for its potential rise in value and is owned for future capital gain. Normally, investors consider common stocks or equity mutual funds as the prime candidates for this category. Exchange-traded funds (ETFs), which invest in equity investments, also fall into this category.

We manage money on a long-term basis and avoid short term trading.

Every client is treated on an individual basis. Some are retired, some are rich (having far more money than they will need to satisfy their goals), and others are in the wealth accumulator mode. Young or mature, rich or an accumulator, all clients are treated appropriately with respect to their personal financial situation. We evaluate what they own, what they earn, spend and save, what they may inherit, and develop a financial plan and investment strategy to meet their needs and accomplish their personal goals.

Investment capital consists of monetary assets including cash, checking and savings accounts, bonds, annuities, CDs, insurance cash value, common & preferred stock, equity and bond funds, investments in 401(k) plans, 403(b) plans and other employer retirement plans, investment real estate, exchange traded funds, unit investment trusts, company stock options, etc. Personal or use assets, residences and vacation real estate equity are not part of investment capital. Please note though, this list is not exhaustive.

This document and a copy of our privacy policy are initially distributed to potential clients prior to their first meeting with us. Upon becoming a client, completion of a comprehensive questionnaire is requested and/or the provision of appropriate documents so we can complete said questionnaire. The next step is to have this information analyzed and evaluated, during which time we may create a personal financial plan. Incorporated in the plan are projections for the future and an initial investment strategy report presenting how we plan to manage the investment portfolio. A meeting is arranged for the initial presentation and discussion of the plan. Once everyone is satisfied that we are dealing with correct information and agree on a course of action, we begin to implement the plan.

Item 5:
ADVISORY FEES / COMPENSATION

We charge a quarterly fee of one quarter of one percent (0.25% each quarter for a total of 1% annually) of the client's total investment capital, as previously defined, and which must be paid in advance. It does not matter whether we have discretion over the assets, whether the assets are liquid, or whether they are held in a 401(k) or 403(b) plan, or a bank or credit union. Fees are negotiable, so if a client believes an asset should be excluded from the calculation, we listen and negotiate. Moneywatch Advisors does NOT receive any other form of compensation, such as performance-based fees or transactions-based compensation/commission.

Once the fee is agreed upon and the first quarterly installment is paid, we begin our analysis. Ordinarily if the relationship starts early in the month and we can make significant progress in starting to manage the client's affairs, the client's start (anniversary) date will be the first of that month. When it is past the middle of the month or we are not going to make much progress during the remainder of the month, we set the start date at the first of the next month. Our advisory fee is adjusted quarterly and calculated on the first day (as of the last business day) of the month; exactly one month prior to the client fee being due. This procedure allows us to mail the client an Invoice & Report of Managed Investments in advance to show how the fee is calculated for the upcoming quarter. Clients are responsible for double checking our calculations to assure themselves that no errors have been made. The invoice they receive reminds them that the custodian will not determine the accuracy of the fee. We reserve the right to make interim adjustments to advisory fees in the case where there might be a substantial change in the client's investment capital. Clients have the right to request adjustments also.

Fees are calculated each quarter as of the last business day of the month so it is possible that a client will be paying more or less than the agreed upon percentage, due to asset price fluctuations and additions or withdrawals of capital. Client fees are negotiable and can be re-calculated at the request of the client. In most cases our minimum fee is $250 per quarter. In the case of smaller accounts (less than $100,000) being charged the flat fee, the client will be paying a fee greater than 0.25% per quarter. In some cases, we make exceptions to the minimum fee per quarter.

Fees are billed quarterly in advance, and it is our preference to have that fee paid by direct debit from one of the client's brokerage or investment accounts. The client has the choice to mail the fee directly to the custodian. The custodian does not verify the accuracy of the calculation of the fee.

Clients may discontinue our service at any time without penalty. Since fees are paid in advance, the client is entitled to reimbursement of the unused portion of the fee, upon resignation. Reimbursement is calculated by dividing the number of days in the quarter into the total fee amount; the total number of days remaining in the quarter is multiplied by the daily rate and the client is issued a check for this amount. The client is responsible for contacting our office and requesting the reimbursement.

To the extent that we recommend the use of open, closed-end and exchange-traded funds, which will likely represent a substantial portion of assets under management, the client should be aware these funds charge investment management fees. As a result, the cost of dealing with Moneywatch Advisors is more than the 0.25% quarterly fee. In the case of smaller accounts being charged a flat fee, the assets under management may be paying a fee much greater than 0.25%. Some brokerage firms which hold client assets also charge trading fees at times. This is unavoidable. These fees can range from $6.95 per equity trade up to $45 per broker assisted mutual fund trade. Generally, Moneywatch Advisors tries to purchase mutual funds without any trading fees, but at times this may occur when a specific fund has a trading fee.

Employees of Moneywatch Advisors are not compensated by anyone for the sale of securities or other investment products. It is possible for clients to purchase investment products that Moneywatch Advisors recommends through other brokers or agents that are not affiliated with us, but we believe Charles Schwab provides cost effective trading and superior service which allows us to manage client accounts more seamlessly.

We do not charge separately for financial planning services therefore we are unable to accommodate individuals who wish to have stand-alone planning services charged on an hourly or project basis.

TYPES OF CLIENTS

Moneywatch Advisors clientele consists of over 377 individuals, retirement plans, trusts, estates, and charitable organizations with a primary emphasis on individuals with a varied amount of beginning assets.

Item 8:
METHODS OF ANALYSIS, INVESTMENT STRATEGIES & RISK OF LOSS

Our investment research and analysis is fundamental in nature, with limited technical analysis, as it affects our overall view of the stock and bond markets. We do review technical analyses about the overall stock market on a regular basis, but not with respect to individual asset purchases as a short-term trader would. When we choose mutual funds, performance being equal, we favor ones with lower expenses and some which qualify for trading without a brokerage commission. However, some of the investments in which we invest may involve paying a brokerage commission. We utilize publications like the Wall Street Journal, and internet sites like marketwatch.com, google.finance.com, forbes.com, yahoo.com, cnbc.com, closed-endfunds.com and bloomberg.com. In addition, we use Morningstar and FundVisualizer.

Investing in securities involves risk of loss that clients should be prepared to bear.

As previously stated, each client's portfolio is reviewed on a quarterly basis or more frequently if need be. We initiate appropriate rebalancing at that time if necessary.

Item 11:
CODE OF ETHICS, PARTICIPATION OR INTEREST IN CLIENT TRANSACTIONS AND PERSONAL TRADING

A complete copy of the Moneywatch Advisors code of ethics is available upon the request of any client or prospective client.

The purpose of the code is to identify where EMPLOYEES of Moneywatch Advisors invest their money to prevent conflicts of interest. Moneywatch Advisors requires that employees have their investment accounts at Charles Schwab. This enables the Chief Compliance Officer (CCO) to review employee account holdings and trade confirmations. In the event that it is not possible for an account to be held at Charles Schwab, we utilize software that allows us to review positions and transactions on a daily basis, Morningstar - By All Accounts. If neither is possible the CCO requests, saves and reviews custodian account statements quarterly.

All employees of the company are required to abide by the Moneywatch Advisors Code of Ethics. A copy of our ethics code is available to clients upon request. Each employee has acknowledged by signature that he is aware of and abides by our Code of Ethics.

Client accounts are not affected in any way by trade errors made by employees of Moneywatch Advisors. Any gain and loss sustained by a trade error on the same day will be netted and absorbed by the company. A net gain on a trade error will be donated to a charitable organization chosen by Charles Schwab. If a client experiences a gain from a trade placed in error and the trade is consistent with the individual's investment strategy, the trade will not be reversed and the client will retain the benefit. The complete Moneywatch Advisors Trading Error Policy is available to clients upon request.

Moneywatch Advisors, its principal officers and employees and their immediate relatives may invest in all or most of the same assets which the company recommends to and purchases for its clients. Employees must receive prior documented approval from Ramsey Bova in order to acquire securities outside those recommended to our clients. Client trades always take precedence over company or employee trades and this procedure is monitored by Ramsey Bova in her capacity as chief compliance officer assisted by Lee Chapman in his capacity as operation manager. In a situation where an employee order would be disadvantageous to a client, the client order would go first.

BROKERAGE PRACTICES

We recommend where clients should trade their investable assets, and we also recommend other financial and legal professionals. We accept no compensation from any firm or person for referrals. Client fees are our sole source of compensation. Moneywatch Advisors does not participate in formal soft-dollar arrangements.

Our clients currently have the majority of their investable assets at one large, well known discount brokerage firm, Charles Schwab, which caters to independent financial advisory firms. Often, lower commission rates can be had at other firms, but we believe the value of the services provided to our firm by Charles Schwab is important because this relationship allows us to operate at the fee level we currently charge. The relationship between our firm and the brokerage firm is important to both our long-term profitability and to the client. Dealing with discount brokerage firms leaves little room for negotiation of commission rates, so we do not negotiate rates. We encourage clients to provide Moneywatch Advisors with trading authority over their investment accounts so we can ensure timely execution of portfolio changes. We continually evaluate alternative brokerage firms to ensure our clients are receiving acceptable and fairly priced services. Charles Schwab does supply Moneywatch Advisors with products and services to assist us in managing and administering client accounts. These include software and other technology that provide access to the client account data (such as trade confirmations and account statements), facilitate trade execution, provide research, pricing information and other market data and facilitate payment of Moneywatch Advisors fees from client accounts.

Moneywatch Advisors participates in the institutional advisor program (the "Program") offered by Charles Schwab Institutional. Charles Schwab Institutional is a division of Charles Schwab Inc. and a member of FINRA/SIPC. Charles Schwab is an independent [and unaffiliated] SEC-registered broker-dealer. Charles Schwab offers to independent investment advisors services which include custody of securities, trade execution, clearance and settlement of transactions. Moneywatch Advisors receives some benefits from Charles Schwab through its participation in the Program.

As disclosed above, Moneywatch Advisors participates in Charles Schwab's institutional customer program, and we may recommend Charles Schwab to clients for custody and brokerage services. There is no direct link between Moneywatch Advisors' participation in the program and the investment advice it gives to its clients, although we receive economic benefits through its participation in the program that are typically not available to Charles Schwab retail investors. These benefits include the following products and services (provided without cost or at a discount): receipt of duplicate client statements and confirmations; research related products and tools; consulting services; access to a trading desk serving Moneywatch Advisors participants; access to block trading (which provides the ability to aggregate securities transactions for execution and then allocate the appropriate shares to client accounts); the ability to have advisory fees deducted directly from client accounts; access to an electronic communications network for client order entry and account information; access to mutual funds with no transaction fees and to certain institutional money managers; and discounts on compliance, marketing, research, technology, and practice management products or services provided to Moneywatch Advisors by third party vendors. Charles Schwab may also have paid for business consulting and professional services received by our related persons. Some of the products and services made available by Charles Schwab through the program may benefit Moneywatch Advisors but may not benefit its clients' accounts. These products or services may assist us in managing and administering clients' accounts, including accounts not maintained at Charles Schwab. Other services made available by Charles Schwab are intended to help us manage and further develop its business enterprise. The benefits received by Moneywatch Advisors or its personnel through participation in the program do not depend on the amount of brokerage transactions directed to Charles Schwab. As part of its fiduciary duties to clients, we always endeavor to put the interests of its clients first. Clients should be aware, however, that the receipt of economic benefits by Moneywatch Advisors or its related persons in and of itself creates a potential conflict of interest and may indirectly influence Moneywatch Advisors choice of Charles Schwab for custody and brokerage services.

Moneywatch Advisors believes that these services are not only of benefit to the execution of its client services but also to its clients directly.

REVIEW OF ACCOUNTS

On a continuing basis, Moneywatch Advisors performs portfolio reviews, usually quarterly, in the month prior to the quarterly fee being due. An invoice and list of assets being billed is delivered with a reminder to clients to provide updates to their financial statement and to schedule a quarterly meeting. Moneywatch Advisors estimates that we spend 90% of the working time managing investments and 10% furnishing clients with advice on financial planning matters. Moneywatch Advisors assists clients in making primary and vacation residential decisions, financing decisions, estate planning decisions, relocation decisions, educational planning, etc.

Interim reviews can be triggered by a variety of factors but are most often attributable to withdrawals, deposits of cash or large dividends.

Each month Moneywatch Advisors prepares and delivers a consolidated net worth statement and a newsletter to all clients. Clients are encouraged to use the net worth statement as a reminder to contact us to update their information, if need be. Additionally, clients receive purchase and sale confirmations and statements from the brokerage firm holding their assets. Clients are encouraged to compare their consolidated net worth statement and their managed assets statement (which accompanies the invoice) issued by Moneywatch Advisors with their individual brokerage firm statements to ensure accuracy of reporting and fee calculation.

Item 14:
CLIENT REFERRALS AND OTHER COMPENSATION

Moneywatch Advisors does not pay any form of compensation to any person or company, outside of employees of the firm, for new client referrals. Nor does the firm accept compensation from any person or company for the referral of clients for professional assistance, such as accountants, attorneys, insurance providers, etc.

Moneywatch Advisors participates in the institutional advisor program (the "Program") offered by Charles Schwab Institutional. The SEC has deemed that Moneywatch Advisors has custody of client assets through the retention of client usernames and passwords for investment accounts, as well as in rare cases where an employee serves as the trustee for client accounts. The ability to update client information – such as addresses, beneficiaries, or banking details – using these credentials grants our firm custody under SEC regulations. Our firm is subject to an annual surprise examination of client funds and securities by an independent public accountant for those assets. Currently, we maintain custody of 134 accounts, totaling over $28,720,000 in assets.

Robert J. Bova serves as the trustee for 2 clients. This relationship was established due to a close family relationship. Ramsey Bova acts as the investment advisor for the 2 clients. These accounts are included in the annual surprise examination of client funds and securities by an independent public accountant.

Money and securities to be deposited to a client's brokerage account should be sent directly to the brokerage firm. If an employee were to inadvertently take custody of a client-owned asset he/she is required to immediately return it to the owner and document the occurrence to the Chief Compliance Officer. Requests for deduction of quarterly advisory fees from clients' accounts are not considered custody.

Moneywatch Advisors delivers a monthly net worth statement to every client and encourages clients to verify the accuracy of this report by comparing it to the monthly statements mailed by the qualified custodian. Clients are urged to inform the company immediately if there is any discrepancy between the report they have received from the custodian and the report we have produced.

If a client were to make a check payable to Charles Schwab with the corresponding account number, the employee is required to document receipt and either put the check in an official pre-addressed Charles Schwab deposit envelope to go out in the next mail service or scan the check for immediate upload and deposit to Charles Schwab.

Item 16: INVESTMENT DISCRETION

Moneywatch Advisors accepts discretionary authority to manage security accounts on behalf of clients. Moneywatch Advisors assumes this authority when the client completes the Investment Advisory Agreement and/or Charles Schwab applications. If a client wishes to place a limitation on this authority it must be done in writing prior to the initial signing of the Investment Advisory Agreement.

Item 17:
VOTING CLIENT SECURITIES

Moneywatch Advisors does not accept authority, nor provide any advice, as how to vote client proxies. Clients will receive their proxies or other solicitations directly from their custodian or a transfer agent.

Item 18
FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Moneywatch Advisors does not solicit prepayment of fees for six months or more in advance. Although fees are collected in advance, they are done so on a quarterly basis. Clients who terminate the relationship prior to the end of the quarter are entitled to a proportionate refund of the fee.
